Wayforward to address the current political challenges in Ethiopia
(for discussion purpose)
By Temesgen Fikiru, Addis Ababa, 25 December 2017

The Federal Democratic Republic of Ethiopia constitution adopted on 8 December 1994 in its preamble stated as one of the objectives and the principles that “Convinced that to live as one economic community is necessary in order to create sustainable and mutually supportive conditions for ensuring respect for our rights and freedoms and for the collective promotion of our interests”. After 23 years of this constitutional exercise, however, recently challenges have emerged to derail the creation of one economic community, Ethiopia’s Growth and Transformation Plans and the nation-building efforts.

The Fundamental drawback of the Constitution of 8 December 1994, as seen now though solved problem back in 1991, is that States were created and dominate political parties have been organized along the “Ethnic line as perceived and practiced”.

The present challenges can be taken as an opportunity to transform the Constitution of 8 December 1994 to fit the present need of the people of Ethiopia and align to the Ethiopian Peoples long-standing aspiration to live together in peace and in prosperity.

Accordingly, the following amendments are suggested for public discussion in accordance with the Constitution of 8 December 1994 provision of Article 104-105 on the amendment.

This amendment through constitutional means is best carried, by not taking long-time, by the EPRDF in close discussions with the public and opposition parties so that the coming election will be exercised based on the new amended Constitution.

The 10 Articles amendments are proposed to separate Party & State structures from Ethnicity and to promote unity among the Ethiopian people.

Proposed Amendment:

Article 3
